

Pinedale Mayor Bob Sweedler attended the meeting to discuss town and county business. He stated that the town council has decided to table the contract whereby the county would be required to pay a fee for use of the town's septage treatment and sewer disposal service until they receive the final report on a study being conducted by Tudor Engineering. He thought that the present pit at the sanitary landfill would suffice until spring and that the county will probably be approached about digging a new pit at that time. He stated that the town has requested a financial report which should be received in January and that they are scheduled to meet, on Thursday, with a local man who wants to lease the airport.

Water Commissioner Chuck MacIlvaine told the Board that they have a lot of problems with subdivisions containing water rights and are trying to get a bill introduced into this legislative session to alleviate some of the problems. He felt that subdividers should be made aware of these problems and either relinquish the water right prior to subdividing or spell out the lot owners rights to irrigation water on the subdivision plat if the water rights are to go with the land.
