

All substances produced from any joint interest reservoir, and not required for the payment in cash or in kind of outstanding royalties and overriding royalties, shall be owned in the percentages determined as above provided. Continental, as the Operator of any such joint interest reservoir, shall, however, have the right to use free of cost, in conjunction with its operation of such joint interest reservoir, any substances produced therefrom.

All wells completed in a joint interest reservoir and all equipment and personal property acquired hereunder by Continental for the operation of such joint interest reservoir and all proceeds derived from such equipment and personal property shall be shared by the aforementioned parties and their successors in interest in proportion to their then respective interests in the substances produced from such joint interest reservoir, it being recognized that changes in the proportionate interests in such wells, equipment, and personal property shall occur with each and every adjustment of the parties' interests in the substances in such reservoir.

In the event that upon the first discovery of a joint interest reservoir, sufficient information shall not be available to permit the committee as above provided to make any reasonable determination of the volume of the reservoir space occupied by the various substances as above provided, then the undivided interests of the parties in and to all of the substances contained in such a reservoir shall, until such proper determination can be made, be as follows: